

College Expels Blood Throwers

FREDERICKSBURG (UPI) — Two students charged with tossing bags of blood at a recruiter for the Central Intelligence Agency have been expelled from Mary Washington College.

Their dismissals were announced Monday after an administrative hearing between College President Prince D. Woodward and the two students, Kevin M. Flatt of Alexandria and Stephen M. Galloway of Annandale.

The two are allegedly tossed bags of blood at the recruiter on Oct. 17 during the college's career day activities.

They have been charged with simple assault, public profanity and disturbing the peace.

They are scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing in General District Court on Nov. 4.
